

Volunteers improve TODAY for TOMORROW

Taurean Morrow is a graduate student at Alabama A&M University studying business administration and he also serves in the National Guard. When Taurean came on as a volunteer, he just hit the ground running and has been so awesome to work with. He is such a pleasant young man and is so agreeable with whatever task he can help with.

Taurean has worked with the Madison County Soil and Water Conservation District by helping to sort education materials for an upcoming teacher workshop with the NRCS Huntsville field office, making HEL determinations, obtaining maps, working with EQIP files and going on field visits to learn more about what we do. He has also worked with the North Area field office by helping with administrative tasks such as gathering information for vehicle reports.

Taurean stated, "Of all the internships that I have worked on in the past, the hands-on experience that I have received in such a short time in the Huntsville office has been the most rewarding. I really enjoy working with the staff in Huntsville."

Many times we get a volunteer who "picks and chooses only the things that appeal to them". While that is certainly acceptable, it is such a pleasant surprise to encounter this young man who is ready to tackle any project that is given to him. He is a great asset to this office and we feel so fortunate to have him as an Earth Team Volunteer! He certainly goes the extra mile! Submitted by Kathy Walker
